13. ABSTRACT (Maximum 200 words) ➤ Defense Planning and Programming Categories (DPPC) are used by the Department of Defense in selected analyses to array Program Element (PE) organized resource data. This study evaluated the need for revising or replacing DPPC for analyses and reports produced by the Office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Force Management and Personnel) (OASD(FM&amp;P)). The report documents the history of the DPPC structure, its current uses and users, and the perceived strengths and weaknesses of the structure. The DPPC is compared to another major structure used by DoD in arraying PE-organized data – the Defense Mission Categories. Based on our analysis of OASD(FM&amp;P) needs, LMI has recommended that the DPPC not be replaced, since the original need for which the structure was developed – reporting DoD manpower requirements to Congress – continues to exist. The DPPC continues to be the structure most capable of providing the desired information. The structure can be made more useful by expanding the level of detail tracked by the various categories, making the DPPC more comparable to the DMC, and by instituting certain management procedures. ←

APPENDIX E

PROPOSED EXPANDED DPPC STRUCTURE

This appendix supports LMI's recommendations to ASD(FM&P) that the Defense Planning and Programming Categories (DPPC) be expanded to provide additional levels of detail in order to support more effective tracking of resources. This recommendation, as well as the other findings of LMI's study of the utility of the DPPC, are documented in the LMI report entitled Defense Planning and Programming Categories: A Special Tool for Special Purposes, July 1989.

The following are included in Appendix E:

- LMI's suggested expansion of the DPPC structure
- Suggested PE assignments to the expanded DPPC structure
- FY89 PEs with assigned categories of the DPPC.

Each of these is briefly described below.

EXPANDED DPPC STRUCTURE

As a result of our analysis of the strengths and weakness of the current DPPC, LMI has recommended that the structure be expanded to provide more discrete and homogeneous groups of program elements (PE) and the highly aggregate groupings currently possible with the DPPC. In support of this recommendation, LMI has created an expanded version of the DPPC, including up to five levels of detail in several of the major categories.

The rationale adopted in expanding the structure has been to recognize that within the existing DPPC structure are obvious groups of PEs that are consistently identified with a particular mission or support function. These existing groups of PEs within each DPPC are the starting point for the expansion of the DPPC. In addition, the Defense Mission Categories (DMC) has been used as a source of ideas for expanding the mission-related areas of the DPPC, specifically the Strategic Forces, Tactical/Mobility Forces, and Intelligence and Communications areas. Particular attention has also been given to identifying those groups of PEs assigned to support categories of the DPPC with the particular missions they support, in an effort to increase the linkage between mission PEs and the related support activities.

In some cases, a DPPC subcategory has been created for which no PEs are currently identified. This has been done to create place-holder categories, in order to maintain structural consistency, and because the possibility exists that future PEs could be created which would fit into these subcategories.

This expanded DPPC structure is intended to be a starting point for OASD(FM&P). Before implementing such a structure it would be desirable for it to be fully reviewed for reasonableness and consistency, by both participating OSD users and Service users. It is possible that while some users have expressed interest in an expanded DPPC structure, there may be objections from other parts of the user community.

EXPANDED DPPC PROGRAM ELEMENT ASSIGNMENTS

LMI has suggested the attached set of PE assignments to the newly created Expanded DPPC subcategories. Rather than totally revising the PE/DPPC assignments, LMI has used the FY89 PE/DPPC assignments as the starting point for this effort. No changes have been made to the assignments of PEs to the existing 38 DPPC categories. Rather, the PEs have been assigned to a lower level of indenture within their current DPPC category.

During the course of assigning PEs to the more detailed subcategories, LMI has noted that some PE/DPPC assignments may be anomolous, in that the PE does not seem to fit with the other PEs previously assigned to the DPPC. In these cases, LMI has assigned the questionable PE to the "Other" category within the overall DPPC. This does not mean, however, that all PEs assigned to these "Other" categories are anomolous, but rather, where anomolies have occurred, that this is how they have been handled.

As with the expanded structure, these assignments are intended to be a starting point for ASD(FM&P), and should be fully reviewed for consistency and reasonableness before being implemented. They represent LMI's best judgment of how PEs could be assigned to the expanded structure. However, those with specific familiarity with the PEs may recommend alternative assignments.
